

“People love to order our fresh greens for themselves or as gifts,” says Jennifer Benevides, Senior Corporate Retail Merchant Manager for L.L.Bean Home. “It’s how we bring the beauty of the outdoors to our customers’ homes during the most wonderful time of the year. Decorating for the holidays is a beloved tradition for so many, and there’s just something special about a live wreath or centerpiece.”

Handcrafted in Maine and arranged one piece at a time, centerpieces, wreaths and tabletop trees are carefully cut to ensure the health of donor trees’ remaining branches, and are water-washed for chemical-free freshness. Multiple assortments of carefully sourced live greens are enhanced with real pinecones, lifelike holly berries, crab apples, holly berries, seashells, bows, burlap, candles and battery-operated lights.

Celebrate your love of the coast with a seaside-themed wreath

For a classic, timeless option, many opt for a simple wreath with one red bow. Decadent dinner parties and festive family gatherings may call for more elegantly adorned options.

No matter the design style, all-natural greens are a winter-time accessory with staying power. With proper care and conditions, naturally sturdy evergreens can last indoors through the holiday season, while outdoor wreaths — in true Maine fashion — can even tolerate rugged winter weather.

A classic, timeless style, handcrafted and sustainably-harvested

Decadent parties may call for more adorned options

Bean’s two family-owned suppliers — a balsam farm in Maine and a West Coast farm specializing in noble fir and western red cedar — fulfill orders directly to ensure freshness. Early shoppers can pre-order fresh greens beginning in August for a mid-November delivery that maximizes freshness and fragrance.

When the season is over, some fresh greens can even be transported outside, planting the memory of a winter wonderland that you and your loved ones can watch grow. 🌲